

Hi,

Wow we have had a busy couple of weeks back, so sorry I didn't update my blog last week. I have been working really hard to try and keep all my humans happy, popping into classes and playing ball with them which they really seem to like.

This week I have been really busy shooting footage for my up and coming VLOG I'm trying to think of a catchy title "Chester the movie" or "Chester the wonder dog". Mum says it's going to take some editing because I keep shaking my head, but she has no idea the pressure of being a movie star.

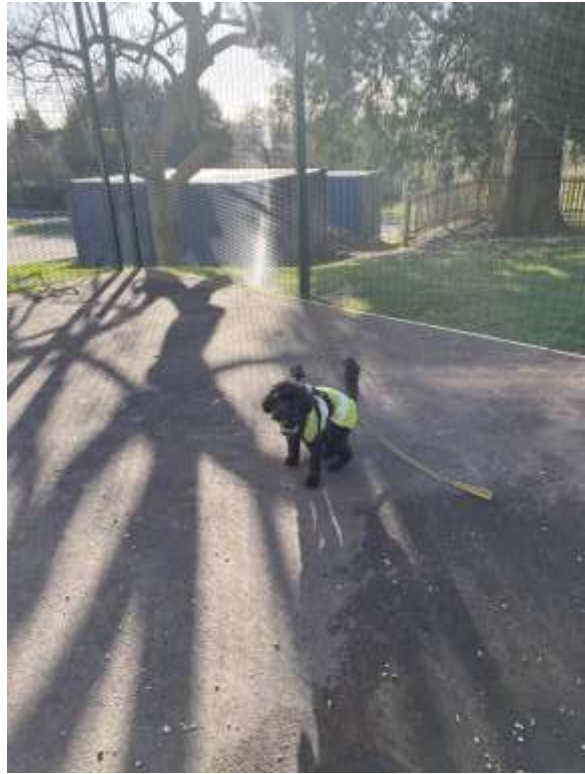

In the meantime, I thought I'd share some shots of the changes around the school.

- Reception looks really smart with a lovely new screen.

- In the morning taxis now stop at the middle gate where I meet the boys and then they go in through the dining hall for temp checks and wandings.
- We also have a smart new fence down by the MUGA and at the end of the day boys go out through the MUGA to their taxis.

Hopefully when mum gets her editing done I can show you properly what it looks like.

In the meantime, take care

Chester
